

NIH Office of Dietary Supplements Winter/Spring 2021 Seminar Series

The Office of Dietary Supplements (ODS) hosts seminars on research relevant to dietary supplements and related topics. As of this posting, the seminar series is available virtually (by webinar) only.

Please contact ODS to receive viewing information: ODS@nih.gov

Wednesday, January 13, 2021, 11:00 a.m. (ET)

Curcumin Effects on Behavioral Resilience

Nesha Burghardt, Ph.D. — Hunter College of the City University of New York, New York, NY

Wednesday, January 27, 2021, 11:00 a.m. (ET)

Vitamin D and Chronic Disease

Anastassios Pittas, M.D. — Tufts Medical Center, Boston, MA

Wednesday, February 17, 2021, 11:00 a.m. (ET)

Uric Acid Metabolism and Purines in Diet and Dietary Supplements

Stephen P. Juraschek, M.D., Ph.D. — Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center, Boston, MA

Wednesday, March 10, 2021, 11:00 a.m. (ET)

Plant Flavonoids and Human Health

Guido F. Pauli, Ph.D. — University of Illinois, Chicago, IL

Wednesday, April 14, 2021, 11:00 a.m. (ET)

Gut Microbiome and Personalized Nutrition

Purna Kashyap, M.B.B.S. — Mayo Clinic School of Medicine, Rochester, MN

Wednesday, May 12, 2021, 11:00 a.m. (ET)

Dietary Supplement Use by Breast Cancer Patients

Christine Ambrosone, Ph.D. — University of Buffalo, Buffalo, NY

Wednesday, June 23, 2021 11:00 a.m. (ET) - POSTPONED UNTIL FURTHER NOTICE

Improving Communication about the Benefits, Harms, and Uncertainties of Dietary Supplements

Steven Woloshin, M.D., M.S. — The Dartmouth Institute for Health Policy & Clinical Practice, Lebanon, NH

